The proposed modification adds a new subheading under “Estimated Costs of Agricultural Water Quality Control Programs and Potential Sources of Financing” labeled Clear Lake Nutrient Control Program.

The total estimated costs for the development of management plans are estimated at $10,000 to $16,000 (2006 dollars). Estimated costs to implement BMPs are $400,000 to $1,800,000 (2006 dollars).

Potential funding sources include:

1. Those identified in the San Joaquin River Subsurface Agricultural Drainage Control Program and the Pesticide Control Program.
